The EMOJIONE package

Benjamin Weiss weissbenjamin@me.com

Version 1.0.0 from 2016/02/21

1 Introduction

Emoji One is a complete open source emoji set. This package makes it easily accessible in धारूX.

2 How to use it

There are two ways to use this package. Either you use the unicode characters directly in your document or you use the predefined macros. The macroname consist of the prefix emoji and the symbolname. In some cases the names slightly differ from the official shortname of emojione, because digits are converted into words and underscores are stripped.

The following lists every symbol available and its name used in the package.

\emojione_define:nnnn

Depending on which engine is used we have to either use \DeclareUnicodeCharacter (pdfT_EX) or \newunicodechar (X₂M_EXand LuaM_EX) to define new unicode characters. Additionally to defining new characters for every symbol a new macro is created. For a symbol named link the macro is called \emojilink.

bool_if:nTF { \xetex_if_engine_p: || \luatex_if_engine_p:}

{

RequirePackage{newunicodechar}

\cs_new:Npn \emojione_define:nnnn #1#2#3#4

{

newunicodechar{#1}{{\emojione_input{#4}}}

\expandafter\edef\csname emoji#2\endcsname{\emojione_input{#4}}

RequirePackage[utf8x]{inputenc}

\cs_new:Npn \emojione_define:nnnn #1#2#3#4

{

DeclareUnicodeCharacter{#3}{\emojione_input{#4}}

\expandafter\edef\csname emoji#2\endcsname{\emojione_input{#4}}

\expandafter\edef\csname emoji#2\endcsname{\emojione_input{#4}}

\expandafter\edef\csname emoji#2\endcsname{\emojione_input{#4}}

}

(End definition for \emojione_define:nnnn. This function is documented on page ??.)

Define the symbols using the previously created macro.
